La Jolla, CA-- On March 2, ONE will debut a new painting by Gary Lang titled ROR, a radiant diamond-shaped canvas largely inspired by the concept of ONE. Lang's works often vibrate from a central point, with a harmoniously hard-edged gradient of colors moving towards the outer reaches of the surface. Lang painted one color each day, and then masked it, as he intuitively moved on to painting the next color. By covering all the work he had previously completed, Lang described the process as being more instinctually concerned with where he was going, rather than where he'd been. This allowed him to be fully present with each color and resulted in a meditation on interactions between color, light, and direction.
